Dinnertime in this space is elegant yet casual. A neutral palette with a gray-washed wood table and cream-colored upholstered chairs create a serene background for family and great food. "My inspiration comes from my travels, especially the ocean," says Winkelmann. "To me, the ocean has amazing serenity and texture from which I derived my color scheme. While there is merely a simple pop of color in the wall covering, the room is layered with textures that give the space depth and warmth."

Contemporary light fixtures and a fresh take on the traditional dining chair offer a transitional style that blends seamlessly with the industrial-style staircase delineating on the space.

Cozy Contradiction

The living space is a study in contradiction. The open space with high ceilings is quaint and cozy. The sleek, shiny gray walls and ceiling are juxtaposed against the rough, natural stone fireplace. Contemporary furnishings contrast the natural, earthy elements.

“The luscious palette of soft grays and ivory are present in the fabrics of the plush sectional, fur throw and pillows,” says Wright. “This creates the backdrop for color accents of chartreuse, mixed with cool blues and greens in the rug.”
